ANNOUNCEMENTS

Protecting DC utility consumers is our top priority. As we continue to find ourselves trying to navigate these uncertain times, we must remain vigilant against bad actors that often take advantage of stressful situations. This is why the Commission is joining the Federal Trade Commission and organizations nationwide to recognize National Consumer Protection Week from March 6th to 12th. The Commission has relaunched its “Fight Utility Scams” campaign offering consumers tips and community resources through the updated Fight Utility Scams web page in honor of the week. This online resource will also include interviews with Pepco, Washington Gas, and the Office of the Attorney General specifically curated for DC utility consumers. Consumers are also encouraged to share their knowledge and experiences regarding utility scams to help others. Visit our website at www.fightutilityscams.com.
