DCPSC Chairman Emile Thompson Appointed to Advisory Council of EPRI Board of Directors

(Washington, D.C.) - Public Service Commission of the District of Columbia (DCPSC) Chairman Emile C. Thompson has been appointed by the National Association of Regulatory Utility Commissioners (NARUC) to serve as a member of the Advisory Council of the Electric Power Research Institute (EPRI) Board of Directors for a term ending August 2027.

EPRI's Advisory Council offers guidance and feedback on economic, social, political, and international trends that should be considered when setting the institute's research priorities. It also ensures that EPRI maintains a balanced approach to serving the public interest.

"I am honored to be appointed to the EPRI Advisory Council Board of Directors. This opportunity allows me to contribute to the advancement of innovative energy solutions and to collaborate with industry leaders who are shaping the future of electricity," said Thompson.

Thompson has extensive experience in public service and regulatory affairs, particularly overseeing utilities and ensuring the fair and efficient delivery of utility services to the public. He joins an esteemed group of chairs and commissioners from Connecticut, North Carolina, Dakota, Indiana, Michigan, Arizona, Georgia, Washington, New Hampshire, and Minnesota on the council.

EPRI is a nonprofit organization that conducts research and development related to the generation, delivery, and use of electricity. Its work has a significant impact on the electricity industry, helping to address challenges and opportunities in the energy sector. EPRI's mission is to help ensure reliable, affordable, and environmentally responsible electricity through innovative science and technology solutions.

The Public Service Commission of the District of Columbia is an independent agency established by Congress in 1913 to regulate electric, natural gas, and telecommunications companies in the District of Columbia.
